Message From Fr Bing

5th Sunday of Lent: Released from the Tomb Jn 11:1-45

During my 30-day Ignatian retreat, my spiritual director asked me if I ever brought my anger issue into my prayer. For almost two decades at that time, I was constantly wrestling with the demon of anger. There is a problem with holding anger in one's heart: Holding on to anger is like having it in the palm of your hands, like a hot coal with the intent of throwing it at someone; you are the first to get burned. The teacher who put me down and embarrassed me in front of everyone did not even know the extent of the psychological trauma I suffered. All those years, I have not forgiven him. I became an angry kid and later an adult. For many years I was in the tomb of hatred toward that person; as a defense mechanism, I took the stance not to allow anyone to put me down, ever. Anger was my vicious weapon against perceived enemies. When I brought everything to God in prayer, with my spiritual director's guidance, I finally came out of the tomb of my imprisonment and received the grace of forgiving from/with a heart. To forgive is to set a prisoner free and discover that the prisoner was you. It was the most liberating experience of my life; forgiveness sets me free. I forgive because God has forgiven me first.

The story of Lazarus reminded me that I was a dead man all through those years that anger consumed me. Like Lazarus, who was dead for three days, it was almost two decades for me. People spoke to me about life, but I was deaf to it. After I brought everything to Jesus, I heard what He said: Come out Lazarus. Jesus broke open the stone that covered the entombed me in my anger, replacing my stony heart with a heart of flesh. Looking back on my attempts to conquer my anger, I became aware of the methods I used to end the many faces of anger in my life. 1.) I tried to stop it through my efforts; but was unsuccessful. 2.) I brought Jesus into the picture - by bringing it into prayer, and the grace of forgiving from the heart happened.

Sometimes we forget that we can never be truly successful without the help of God. Help me, O Lord my God! Save me by Your loving-kindness. Let them know that this is Your hand and that You, O Lord, have done it (Ps. 109:26-27). Yes, Lord! Without you, I can do nothing. Nothing is impossible to You. People experience freedom from the tombs of their imprisonment; if only they would allow Jesus to break the stone covering these tombs or invite Jesus into their lives. As Martha said to Jesus: Lord if you had been here, my brother would not have died. Another way of saying, my brother died because You were absent in His life.

Death brings forth fruits of new life. Eventually, we all will die. The good thing about our faith is we have the Resurrection - we will not die in vain. Our final resting place, our tomb: is not the end. One of the prefaces of the funeral Mass says: Lord, for your faithful people, life is changed, not ended. Death is a mystery, and a mystery we understand only through FAITH. I pray that one day we hear the words of Jesus. Lazarus, come out. And emerge from the darkness of our tombs into the light of Christ, our true freedom, and allow our community to unbind us.

Lord, may my life be Thine, may my exit be kind, and may eternity be mine, through Your mercy divine! Amen!

Discipleship

Last week I shared four fundamental beliefs that underpin the spirituality of discipleship and stewardship: identity, trust, gratitude and love. These beliefs build logically and intuitively on each other. More importantly, I think we find that they “feel” right in the depths of our hearts. Let’s spend a little more time on identity and trust.

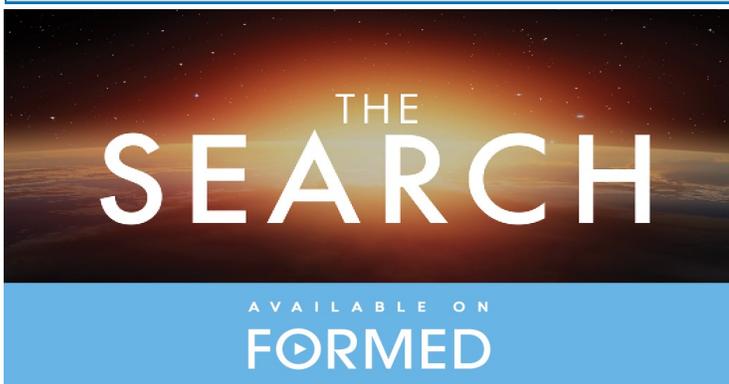

Our identity is based on a loving relationship with our God. We are created in His likeness and image. We are created by God for God; to love and serve Him. It’s been said that we are made by love, for love, to love. This love isn’t puppy love. This is self-sacrificing, willing and doing the good of the other. Heroic love. It’s an action verb not a noun. The paradox of this kind of love is how much happiness and peace we personally receive from it. The more we give of ourselves to the other, the more we receive. Reflecting on “we are made by love, for love, to love” helps explain this paradox, as we’re being true to our design and purpose.

Trust is a natural and logical extension of our identity in God. If God created each of us in His image, to be with Him, to love Him and be loved by Him — why wouldn’t we put our full and unconditional trust in Him? Sin clouds our judgment and actions. We’re falsely led to believe that we are the center of all and that serving our own distorted appetites will bring us happiness and peace. Reflect on this; what brings you lasting happiness and peace?

So what does Identity and Trust have to do with Discipleship? Discipleship is how each of us answer Christ’s call to follow Him and to evangelize the world. It is how we personally bring Christ into our lives and the lives of those around us each and every day. Until we are able to accept and come to grips with the fact that we’re made in His likeness and image and that He is deserving of our unwavering trust, we cannot expect to be disciples. The call to discipleship requires a counter-cultural response that makes no logical sense UNLESS we embrace these beliefs. And more importantly, when we do, they feel right in the depths of our hearts and we find happiness and peace that is so hard to find in our crazy world.

So, what is next for St Rose? It will be exciting to find out!

1 Chronicles 28:10 See then! The Lord has chosen you to build His sanctuary. Take courage and set to work.

What is this journey in between the event we call “birth” and the one we call “death”? Is the journey taking you somewhere, or are you leading yourself to some kind of destination – a destination that could extend beyond your last breath? What do you want from your life during the in between? The questions are there. And, the answers are too. Find this incredible series through the St. Rose Formed subscription at Formed.org

I am very excited to share with you that we will be starting Movie Nights again here at St. Rose. It has taken longer for the weather to turn warm enough for us to be comfortable after dark sitting outside.

We will start by watching the first season of “The Chosen.” As many of you can attest, this is a series that focuses on Jesus and His disciples and has the intent to inspire people to read scripture more and more.

When: April 15, 22, 29 and May 7. Sundown.
(Approximately 7 p.m.)

Where: The North side parking lot at St. Rose. This will be taped off so please park in other areas.

Bring a lawn chair and any snacks you may want.
